In the day of the reign of Christ, the preaching of the Gospel has a wide range of affects on the peoples of the world.

1. Those who will not believe the Gospel insist on continuing as the _____ of God and of His people. They will therefore come under His judgment in time and ultimately in eternity.
 - a. God will bring about temporal _____ in their life.
 - b. God will render them _____ through in fighting.
 - c. God will cause their efforts to be _____ in the long run.
 - d. They will be justly _____ by the Lord in the day of judgment.

2. Those who receive the living water of life in Christ have their lives transformed by the Lord.

- a. The Lord will transform a person from being an enemy of God to gladly _____ Him.
- b. The Lord will give His people a heart of _____ for their King.

“The nations in coming to this feast were making a double acknowledgment: that it was the Lord who had guided them to where they were, and that it was His bounty that they enjoyed in the harvest. In the light of the Lord’s providential and saving goodness, the feast was one characterized by joy.” - John MacKay

- c. The Lord will enable His people to see _____ areas of life as holy and consecrated to the Lord.
- d. In the New Jerusalem, all believers will be perfectly _____ and have fullness of joy in the presence of the Lord.
