

The background of the image shows the ruins of an ancient city, likely Carthage, with a long colonnade of stone columns and arches under a dramatic, cloudy sky. The text is overlaid in the center in a large, white, sans-serif font.

Prayer is the means by which we stand
strong in the Lord

The background image shows the ruins of an ancient city, likely Pompeii, with a row of standing columns in the foreground and a series of arches in the distance. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall tone is somber and reflective.

When should we pray?
At every opportunity

As for me, I will call upon God, and the LORD shall save me. Evening and morning and at noon I will pray, and cry aloud, and he shall hear my voice

Psalm 55:16-17

The background image shows the ruins of an ancient temple, likely the Temple of Apollo in Side, Turkey. It features a long row of tall, fluted columns supporting a partially collapsed entablature. In the distance, a series of arches forms a colonnade. The ground is covered in rubble and debris. The sky is filled with soft, white and grey clouds, suggesting an overcast day. The overall color palette is muted, with earthy tones of the stone and a cool, blueish-grey sky.

What should we pray?
All kinds of prayers

The background of the image shows the ruins of an ancient city, likely Pompeii, with a row of standing columns in the foreground and a series of arches in the distance. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall tone is somber and reflective.

How long do we pray?
As long as necessary

If you have never had any difficulty in prayer, it is absolutely certain that you have never prayed

The background image shows the ruins of an ancient city, likely Pompeii, with a row of standing columns on the left and a colonnade of arches on the right. The sky is filled with dramatic, dark clouds with patches of blue. The overall tone is somber and historical.

For whom do we pray?
Every believer

The background image shows the ruins of an ancient temple, likely the Temple of Apollo in Side, Turkey. The scene is dominated by a long, colonnaded portico with several standing Corinthian columns. To the right, a series of arches forms a covered walkway. The ground is covered in rubble and debris, suggesting significant destruction. The sky is filled with soft, white clouds, and the overall lighting is warm, typical of late afternoon or early morning. The text is overlaid in the center of the image.

Remember to pray for our spiritual leaders

The background of the slide features a photograph of ancient stone ruins, possibly a temple or palace, under a dramatic, cloudy sky. The ruins are made of light-colored stone and are partially obscured by shadows. The sky is a mix of blue and white, with some darker clouds. The overall tone is somewhat somber and historical.

Does prayer permeate our lives?

- Do we pray at every opportunity?
- Do we pray general and specific prayers?
- Do we pray relentlessly?
- Do we pray for other believers?