- I. Asaph began to _____ the horror of a sinner's future (17-20).

The God that holds you over the pit of hell, much in the same way as one holds a spider, or some loathsome insect, over the fire . . . is dreadfully provoked; His wrath towards you burns like fire; He looks upon you as worthy of nothing else but to be cast in to the fire; He is of purer eyes than to bear to have you in His sight; you are ten thousand times more abominable in His eyes than the most hateful venomous serpent is in ours . . . It is to be ascribed to nothing else, that you did not go to hell the last night . . . and there is no other reason to be given, why you have not dropped into hell since you arose in the morning, but that God's hand has held you up . . . O sinner, consider the fearful danger you are in! It is a great furnace of wrath, a wide and bottomless pit, full of the fire of wrath . . . you hang by a slender thread, with the flames of divine wrath flashing about it and ready every moment to singe it, and burn it asunder . . .
