Sermon: Hebrews 13:7-12

1. Is remembering those who persevered before us a tool commonly used to strengthen you? Why, or why not?

Have you had anyone in your life that could fit the description of Heb. 13:7?

2. The author of Hebrews reminds his audience that “Jesus is the same yesterday, today, and forever” (Heb. 13:8). In a changing world and a changing culture, how might we find strength from this truth?

3. Other passages remind us that God is self-existent (no creator needed) and is immutable (without change) Look up the following passages to see similar truths revealed as found in Heb. 13:8.

A. Psalm 102:25-27

B. Revelation 1:8, Rev. 4:8

C. Exodus 3:14, and John 8:58

D. John 1:1-2, 14

4. Read Matt. 27:50-51. What is so significant about this event. What truths from the book of Hebrews could be used to better understand what went on that day and why the curtain was ripped?

5. Judaism (the Jewish religion) could be said to be the closest religion to Christianity, yet according to Heb. 13:9-12, if the Jews continued in Judaism and rejected the Messiah, should they expect to enter into Heaven? _____ B. Read Acts 4:1-12. Does Peter give the Sanhedrin and the High Priest any hope, if they remain in their religion?

C. Does Paul give any hope to those who tried to blend Judaism and Christianity together? Read Galatians 1:6-8.

6. How would you explain to someone the exclusivity of Christ for salvation who believed that there were many ways to get to heaven?
