1. In times of great upheaval and discouragement, believers can stand firm in the fact that God's unchanging faithfulness assures that His Word provides a sure foundation.

- a. Believers can be confident that no matter how things are in the culture, God's Word continues to have a heaven-like _____.
- b. God's Word can be trusted because He is _____ and has proven that from generation to generation.
- c. Believers can be encouraged that though the world continues in rebellion to it's Creator, He continues to keep the natural world _____ as He created it to do.

2. Since God's Word is perfectly true and stable, it provides help that is sufficient for His servants.

- a. The Word of God is sufficient to enable His servants to _____ affliction with joy.

- b. God uses His sufficient Word to quicken His servants in their time of difficulty.

"When we have felt the quickening power of a precept we never can _____ it."

- Charles Spurgeon

- c. The Word of God gives His servants confidence that they truly _____ to Him and He will surely keep them in spite of those who seek to do them harm.
- d. By diligently considering the Lord's testimonies, believers see both the vanity of the world and the _____ application of His commandments to all of life.
