The Psalm Of The Cross Psalm 22:1-31

Mac Williams, Pastor
April 21, 2019

1. David's lament speaks prophetically of the sufferings of Christ, who was anointed by God to fill the office of _____ by offering Himself as a substitutionary sacrifice for sinners.

a. By faith, Christ endured the _____ of God for sin on the cross.

b. By faith, Christ endured the desertion of His friends and the _____ of His enemies.

c. Christ endured intense _____ suffering on the cross.

d. Christ makes bold _____ of the Lord for deliverance while He endured public humiliation and His prayers were heard.

2. Christ was anointed by God to fill the office of _____ by revealing the truth of God.

a. Christ delights in teaching of the Lord and His Word to His _____ to enable her to glorify her Lord.

b. Christ reveals His great compassion and understanding of believers who _____ great affliction.

3. Christ was anointed by God to fill the office of _____ by which He overcomes the resistance of sinners in salvation and ensures that His kingdom will extend to the ends of the earth.

"This passage is a prediction of the conversion of the Gentiles. It furnishes us with two interesting ideas: the nature of true conversion—and the extent of it under the reign of the Messiah." - Andrew Fuller

a. Conversion involves remembering who the Lord is, turning to Him in repentance and faith, and making the Lord the focus of _____.

b. The empire of the King of kings will extend to _____ the families of the earth through the gospel of salvation in Christ.

"Conversion work has been individual; God has gathered sinners one by one. Thus it is at present with us; but it will not be thus always. People will _____ to Zion as doves to their windows. Further, conversion work has hitherto been circumscribed within certain parts of the world. But the time will come when 'all the kindreds of the earth' shall worship. These hopes are not the flight of an ardent imagination; they are founded on the true saying of God." - Andrew Fuller
