“The way to preserve and protect the biblical Sabbath is neither by relaxing its hold on the rhythm of life, not by strengthening its grip by the imposition of man made rules. The way to preserve and protect the biblical Sabbath is to keep it in the way that God intended it to be kept, with the understanding of its purposes and appreciation for the blessings it brings. We have seen that the Sabbath is a present rest, based on past events, having future reference and fulfillment in the great Day of the Lord” (Ray, Celebrating the Sabbath, 91).
