

THE EXPULSIVE POWER OF CHRIST'S LOVE

(A Communion message)

TEXT: 1 John 2:15; 4:18

INTRODUCTION: No doubt you have heard the astute observation – “Nature abhors a vacuum.” The same is true of our human nature. We cannot expel an unwanted affection without replacing it with something better. The greatest power in the world is the love of Christ that “constrains us” to live holy, self-denying lives (2 Cor. 5:14). It accomplishes far more than the most compelling rational arguments about the follies and fallacies of sin. The old Puritan writers referred to this great master-principle as “the expulsive power of a new affection.”

OUTLINE: What does the constraining love of Christ expel in our hearts?

I. Worldliness

(1 John 2:15)

A. We cannot displace a love for the world without replacing it with a love for Christ.

1. A realization of the world's vanity is not enough.
2. Mere resolution is not enough.
3. The capacity to desire must have an object.

B. Regeneration is the critical moment when the love principle is implanted in the heart (2 Cor. 5:17; 1 Pet. 1:8).

II. Fear

(1 John 4:18)

A. Fear cannot co-exist with perfect love.

B. The cross of Calvary has removed the cause for fear (1 Jn. 3:16; 4:19).

C. The Holy Spirit “sheds abroad in our hearts” this love, dispelling fear (Rom. 5:5; 8:15,16).

CONCLUSION: The realization of Christ's love to us is the cure for both guilt and fear. The two are related. When the love of Christ has displaced the old affection for the world, we become conscious of the fact that only God could have wrought such a change. Then our hearts go out in love to Him. Fear is dispelled. The immediate witness of the spirit is experienced. We truly feel that “nothing can separate us from the love of Christ” (Rom. 8:38,39). All of our delight is in Christ. The thought of Hell does not terrorize us, because our oneness with Christ is such, that if God should send us to Hell, He would have to let Jesus go too!
