1. Those who have had their lives graciously transformed by God want to _____ Him in any way they can.

2. Isaiah was sent by God to deliver a _____ - exalting message to a people under His judgment.
 - a. Under Isaiah's ministry, these people would hear with their ears and see evidence with their eyes of God's ways, but they would not _____ any of it.

 - b. Under Isaiah's ministry, these people would become so hardened to the truth, that there would be no possibility that they would be saved. This is done to the praise of God's _____.

"In His mysterious wisdom God had foreordained that this people would not respond to the blessed overtures of the gospel. In His sovereign good pleasure He had passed them by, not ordaining them unto life eternal, and for their _____ had ordained them to dishonor and wrath." - E.J. Young

c. Isaiah gives an excellent example of the need to be faithful to declare the whole truth of God but with a genuine _____ for the people to whom he was called to minister.

3. Even in the midst of judgment, God shows mercy in promising there will be a remnant, a holy seed, who will receive the promises of salvation. This is done to the praise of God's _____.

"Predestination is the means by which God manifests His _____ to the human race

(a) Election is God's decree 'whereby on His own free will, He hath ordained certain men to salvation, to the praise of the glory of His grace.'

(b) Reprobation is 'that part of predestination, whereby God, according to the most free and just purpose of His will, hath determined to reject certain men unto eternal destruction, and misery, and that to the praise of His justice.'"

- Joel Beeke speaking of William Perkins
