

The Elements of Biblical Interpretation

Biblical Archaeology: The Window into the Past

The Bible is a Book that came from a geographic place, that place is long ago and far away.

The origin for each of the words is from beyond earth, since God Himself breathed out each word. But the writing down of the text of each book, that makes up the Book of Books called the Bible, took place on three continents: Europe (some of Paul's Epistles), Africa (some of Moses' writings), and Asia (where most of the Bible was written and took place in the Middle East and Asia Minor).

So, to help us